Let's go south, says Sandra Johnson, this week's Kernel Sweetheart. Sandra, a freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences, is majoring in biological sciences. A member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, she hails from Lexington.

Dr. Sharp To Give Lecture On History

Dr. Paul Frederick Sharp, president of Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio, will give an address for the Blazer Lecture Series at 11 a.m. Monday in the Guignol Theatre.

The address, "Meanings of History," is open to the public. Dr. Thomas Clark, head of the History Department and chairman of the lecture series, said he anticipates that one of the most significant speeches to be given at the University this year.

Dr. Sharp became president of Hiram College in 1957. He has served as an associate professor of history at Iowa State University.

Second Polio Clinic Is Sunday

The second clinic for distribution of Type II vaccine will be held from noon to 5 p.m. March 21 in the lobby of the University Hospital.

Over 5,000 UK students are still unvaccinated against the kind of polio that could be eliminated by taking Type I Sabin Oral Polio vaccine.

There are 7,937 students enrolled this semester, only 2,890 of whom have received the first dose of the vaccine at the University Hospital. Type II polio vaccine was administered to 2,265 people at the Hospital on March 17, but only 1,262 were UK students.

These figures do not include those students who might have taken the vaccine at home or in other distribution centers.

Sabin Oral Polio vaccine not only immunizes the individual against polio but also prevents transmission of the virus to others.

The Art and Music Library has been named in honor of Prof. Edward W. Rammels. His name was incorrectly spelled in Thursday's edition of the Kernel.

Four Preps To Appear Friday In Keys Concert

The Four Preps will perform in concert on Friday, March 29, at Memorial Hall. Two separate performances will be given, at 7 p.m. and at 9:30 p.m. Tickets will be $2 in advance and $2.50 at the door.

The concert is being sponsored by Keys, sophomore men's honorary. Dave Clark, Keys president, said money from the concert would be used for student scholarships.

Memorial Coliseum was unavailable to the Four Preps and arrangements for their concert will be the same as the Smothers Brothers concert tonight.

The Four Preps began recording for Capitol Records in 1957. Their first record, "Dreamy Eyes," was a success that year but their million-selling "26 Miles" made them celebrities in 1958. Soon to follow was "Big Man," which almost overtook "26 Miles," and helped snag the Preps' recognition as "Most Promising Vocal Group" of 1958 in the Cash Box Magazine poll.

By mid-summer of 1961, when their album "The Four Preps On Campus" became a best-seller, it was apparent that the Preps had matriculated to college and adult audiences.

Recorded live amid the pandemonium of one of the Preps' campus appearances, "On Campus" contains audible evidence of why the Preps are one of the busiest vocal groups in the business.

In their brief career they have appeared on Ed Sullivan's show four times, Ernie Ford's show six times, Ozzie and Harriet, another six, and Dick Clark's show 14 times—perhaps a record.

The members of this quartet were primarily interested in athletics, girls, and sundry things other than singing during their Hollywood High School days.

Ed Cobb was an All-City football player; Marvin Ingram lettered in basketball, and Glen Larson and Bruce Belland were track stars. All had other ambitions packed out: Glen, a TV writer; Bruce, a public relations man; Marvin, an attorney; and Ed, a research chemist.

Glen and Ed attended Los Angeles City College until their career monopolized their time. Marvin and Bruce attended UCLA. Marvin long enough to nail down a bachelor's degree.

Of the four, only Ed is a native of Hollywood. Glen was born in Long Beach, Marvin in Shreveport, La., and Bruce in Chicago.

If there were any doubts about the Preps' versatility, one of their records, "More Money For You and Me," should have cleared them up. In it, the Preps spin off imitations of other vocal groups ranging from the Fleetwoods to the Four Freshmen.

Spring Weather Will Vary Daily

By JIM CURTIS
Associate Daily Editor

It was 8 a.m. when I arose and went to the window to welcome Spring who arrived at 3:30 a.m. yesterday. I threw open the window to begin my annual song of "Happy birthday to you dear Spring," when the cold air hit me full in the face. Spring?

I pondered the situation and the weather on my way to my 8:15 class in campus clock setting, which everyone has failed and failed. A 1 walked along deep in concentration. Little boys threw snowballs at me, and I was much disturbed. I made up my mind then and there that I would give the local weather question and check the situation.

In Kentucky you have the privilege of meeting Spring with a snowball in hand. Here is what you lucky cluck...

In the weather bureau they really do have a calendar, but the simple fact is that the people there don't read and they had the date turned to December 21 instead of March 21 not realizing spring had sprung.

The qualifications for being a weather man are few. You are not supposed to know that March is the month of spring. You should not know that north is north but is instead east. You are supposed to look out the window at the airplanes as they are taking off and predict that the wind is north by northeast at approximately 20 miles an hour.

But the secret of the trade is that you don't publicize the fact that the wind is really from the west at 15 miles an hour. You instead announce the direction and speed of the airplane that is in the process of taking off the strip. This you confuse your readers and listeners who must know some odd reason want to know what the weather will be for the day.

Maps and charts have little significance there. They are only used for taking geography tests. They mean nothing in the weather department.

The method of making weather predictions is an interesting one. There is no man in charge of determining the wind direction and velocity. He is a computer, and when a prediction is made, he writes his name and checks it off the window. The idea that the sky just indicates the direction of the wind. The speed is determined by the amount of money his wife took from his billfold while he was asleep that morning.

Then there is one person who is in charge of predicting the actual weather, whether or not it will rain or snow, and if the sun will shine.

He is drafted from the first grade champion dart-throwing class. In the weather bureau he is supplied with the tool of his trade. With the compliments he does it too.

The dart board is round and made of lumber. It has a ring, shot, bar, and a pin. It is placed in the street and closed. I predict the weather by the number of the power of Mr. Smith's last name. I aim at the bull's eye and the dart is thrown three times.

The temperature is determined by the way's location. Are the hills there. And you know the weather is determined.

AWS Sends Four To Convention

Four University women and a faculty adviser will attend the National Association of Women Students' Convention at the University of Oklahoma, Norman, Oklahoma, March 23-29.

Ann Conner, AWS president; Sandy Brock, vice president; Sally List, telephone exchange member; Donna Wiley, chairman of the 1964 AWS National Convention; and Barbara Smith, program chairman, are the official delegates from UK. Ms. Sharp has been named to the dean of women, with a company the group.

The purpose of the convention is to discuss the "Dynamic of Sex." Ms. Harris said it is to emphasize the importance of a woman's education in determining whether she will be a better mother than her mother.

The delegates will be accompanied by Dr. L. L. Fries, professor of psychology at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn., and a faculty adviser from the University of Oklahoma.

REMEMBER! The Purple Onion Comes To UK

The Smothers Brothers, nationally known folk singers and comedians, will appear at Memorial Hall at 7 and 9:30 tonight sponsored by the UKD.

The Smothers Brothers originally started their career at the Purple Onion night club in San Francisco, Cal., and since have appeared on the Jack Paar show and other national television shows.

Tickets are being sold at Kennedy Book Store, Campus Book Store, Graves-Cox, and Barney Miller's Record Shop. There are a limited number of 9:30 tickets at the locations downtown and a few of the 7 at the two book stores.

All Campus Sing To Be April 25

All Campus Sing, to be held at Memorial Hall on April 25, will be sponsored by the UKD Steering Committee in coordination with Phi Beta and Phi Mu Alpha music honoraries.

There will be three divisions: the Student men's chorus, women's chorus, and men's quartets. No more than 30 people are allowed in a chorus.

The groups are being encouraged to choose college songs, folk music, or popular standards for their entries.

Each performance is limited to 10 minutes and must be rehearsed in the UKD rehearsal room.

Groups must be made up of students only. No faculty or staff members are allowed. Applications have been mailed to all fraternities and sororities. Others are available at the Program Director's Office in the Student Union Building.

Invitations must be included a member of the chapter.

Professional musicians will not be allowed to participate either directly or indirectly by coaching.

The entrance fee will be $5.00 for a group providing only a chorus, $8.00 for a group providing a quartet.

Entries must be submitted to the UKD office before the April 1.

Applications have been mailed to all fraternities and sororities. Others are available at the Program Director's Office in the Student Union Building.

And prizes will be given by the UKD Scholarship Fund.

BAYNHAM'S . . . Shoes of Distinction

UK And Integrated Athletics: A Proposal

If the University is to live up to its moral obligations and make significant progress as a major institution it must divorce itself from the segregation policy which dominates the Southeastern Conference.

Here and now with a withdrawal from the SEC or an announcement that we will begin to recruit Negro players by a certain date, we have the chance to make a real step forward. We have the golden opportunity to become leaders. We can stand up and tell the world that we, a Southern university, are sick of having a doctrine of racial inferiority rammed down our throats.

Benjie Shively, UK Athletic Director, has stated that, "Our policy has been not to give any grants-in-aid to Negroes because we are a member of the SEC." He added that the University would lose too much prestige if it withdrew from the conference.

We know UK prestige would drop—in a few Southern states. Across the nation, however, we believe it would rise almost immeasurably. Which is more important?

Dr. A. D. Kirwan, dean of the graduate school and a member of the board of directors of the Athletic Association, stated that if the University took such a drastic step at this time (SEC withdrawal) it would have no one to play. He says, and quite correctly, that athletic schedules are made up too far in advance to allow us to schedule anyone but small and insignificant teams.

When a moral issue like this is at hand, shouldn't we take the step?

In response to questions concerning the possibility of the University recruiting Negro athletes and what would happen to its position in the SEC if it did, President Frank G. Dickey said yesterday: "Any matter of policy change must emanate from the Board of Trustees or the Board of Directors of the Athletic Association. While these questions have been discussed by these groups, no decision has taken place."

Other schools have obviously recognized the responsibility. Progress in the integration of athletic teams is being made in other sections of the country, but not in the SEC. Several major Southern football powers such as Miami of Florida, Wake Forest, and Texas Christian have announced that not only will they use qualified Negro players, but they will begin to recruit them.

Real progress is being made in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Maryland has already signed one Negro football player. Darryl Hill will probably start for Maryland in the near future.

The biggest problem in athletic integration is the Southeastern Conference. Some weeks ago AP sports writer Will Grimsley spoke to a group of SEC coaches about the problem. He received such comments as, "We don't anticipate any change in our recruiting program." This statement was issued by one of Vanderbilt's football coaches.

For instance, Georgia Tech has announced no intention of joining Mississippi State, Mississippi, and Louisiana State during the coming year.

The University of Kentucky is also among the schools which have remained silent.

The question is why have we remained silent? Are we afraid to say what we really believe? Is it true that we're merely paying lip service to a lot of high sounding ideals while really acting like hypocrites?

For those to whom a more "practical" line of reasoning might appeal, we cite the recent discussions on the benefits which would be derived from the recruiting of Negro athletes. The Human Rights News, published by the Commission on Human Rights, Frankfurt, reports a quote from Adolph Rupp in the January 21 issue of The Courier Journal.

"Other regions are catching up with improved basketball, and Kentucky boys are helping them. George Unseld, for instance, is at Kansas. Joe Dan Gold is at Mississippi State. Tom Thacker is at Cincinnati. Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt have state boys."

"Thacker and Unseld are Negroes," reports the Frankfurt-based organization.

In addition to this there are the results of a recent poll conducted by the Kernel. It showed to a statistically significant degree that the majority of UK students favor integrated athletic teams.

From the athletic standpoint there is also a definite disadvantage in belonging to the Southeastern Conference.

At least a few other schools in the conference with lower academic requirements are able to recruit top flight athletes with low flight grades. Thus we see at least one possible reason for Kentucky's poor showing in football.

In basketball UK would certainly remain as great whether in or out of the SEC. Kentucky basketball has made a name for itself. Independence or membership in another conference might enhance Kentucky's cage reputation still more.

The state's chief official, Gov. Bert T. Combs, was considered for a high position on the Southern Governors' Conference last October but declined the honor, explaining he could not accept such a position because of his views concerning segregation. He is against it while the majority of other Southern governors hold the opposite position.

Combs said in a speech delivered to the Chicago Conference for Brotherhood in February, "If American freedom is to live, then all segregation must die."

Whether you are for or against him politically, we think it is apparent that Gov. Combs has stood up for what is right in this important instance.

And now it is our turn.

We ask Dr. Dickey, the board of directors of the Athletic Association, and the Board of Trustees to formulate a plan which will enable UK to withdraw from the Southeastern Conference because of the SEC's reactionary segregation policy.

We fully realize that it is impossible to just jump from one conference to another. We realize also that formulation of the once talked about conference in this area made up of schools with higher academic standards is no something which can be done in the short time span.

However, we realize that the time has come when we must choose between the SEC and the integration of athletics. We'll get something in high moral standards only if we can get a good athletic schedule.

The Readers' Forum

Heritage Aroused

To The Editor:

In response to the cartoon appearing on the editorial page of the March 13 issue of the Kernel, I would like to point out an obvious flaw which aroused the honor of my heritage.

I am sure that there are few students here and at other southern schools who weren't elated upon finding out that Mississippi State would play in the NCAA basketball tournament, and I will grant that there are many bigoted southerners who opposed this because of racial prejudices.

However, to dress the screaming old gentleman in a quasi-Confederate uniform and letter his hat U.S.A. is in exceedingly poor taste. There are many of us here at the University, including myself, whose ancestors shed blood and died for the Confederate States of America, and to so flagrant insult them is, I feel, to directly violate our honor.

Finally, I wish to assert that you will find few people who truly love the south that are responsible for the bigotry attributed to them by northern pseudo-patriots and hate-mongers. Much of the bigotry prevalent today would not be but for the constant "raking over the coals" by hypocritical northerners. To them I say: "Pick the log out of their own eye, before picking the speck from their brother's."

Wants Information

To The Editor:

Please, letter writer Mr. Drien and editorial writers of the Kernel, give your readers the pertinent information on the subject of which you write. Name the eating establishments around campus which will not serve our Negro students. I would like to do my small bit toward jeopardiz-ing these proprietors' businesses" by shifting my patronage to favor those restaurants which do not discriminate.

Until I read the March 6, Kernel, I was unaware that this situation exists.

Our Apology

To The Editor:

In an article dealing with faculty attitudes toward President Kennedy's tax reduction proposal in the March 13 issue of the Kernel I was misquoted on two points.

First, with reference to savings as a percentage of gross national product my statement to the reporter was: "People aren't spending now what they are able to. Last year the total of savings-type assets—bank time deposits, savings bonds, short-term government securities, etc.—rose to 57 percent of the U.S. gross national product. This was a 20 percent gain since 1959."

Second, my reference to tax-exempt securities was specifically to "tax-exempt municipal bonds," present high tax rates drive the savings of wealthy investors into these bonds and away from business enterprise.

Music Professors To Give Concert

Gordon Kinney, violin cellist, and Thomas Still, pianist, will present a joint concert on the University Musical Series Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the Guignon Theatre of the Fine Arts Building.

The program will include "Sonata in G minor, Opus 5, Number 2" by Beethoven; "Suite from Les Gouts-reunis" by Francois Couperin; and "Sonata in A minor for the arpeggione" by Franz Schubert.

The suite by Couperin was transcribed for violincello and piano by Mr. Kinney.

Mr. Kinney has been an associate professor of music at UK since 1952. He has formerly taught at Ohio University and at the University of Colorado. His professional appearances include work with the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra and the Kansas City Philharmonic where he was the principal violincelist and associate conductor.

Mr. Kinney has degrees from Eastman School of Music and the University of South Dakota and has done work on his Ph.D. at Florida State University.

Mr. Still, assistant professor of music at the University of Kentucky, is a former Oberlin Conservatory of Music. He taught piano privately in his hometown of Kinsport, Tenn., before coming to the University in the summer of 1952. His students have won awards in state and national competition sponsored by clubs such as the National Federation of Music Clubs and the National Guild of Piano Teachers. Still has continued his study during the summers in such places as the Aspen Colorado School of Music, Indiana University, and Eastman School of Music.

In 1961, he was the winner of the biennial Young Artists Contest sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

The Musicale is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Smith To Present Lectures

Dr. Smith will present a series of lectures on the history of music in the UK College of Medicine. The lectures will be held in the lecture hall of the college and will be open to the public.

The first lecture will be on the history of music in the UK College of Medicine. The lecture will be held in the lecture hall of the college and will be open to the public.

Dr. Smith will also present a series of lectures on the history of music in the UK College of Medicine. The lectures will be held in the lecture hall of the college and will be open to the public.

Information presented during Dr. Smith's visit will be printed in a book form and sent to major colleges and universities throughout the nation to supplement their philosophy departments.

Singer To Present Recital Tonight

Miss Celia Butler, Mezzo-soprano, from Parkersburg, West Virginia, will present her Senior Recital tonight at 8 o'clock, in the Laboratory Theatre of the Fine Arts Building.

She will be accompanied by Miss Ann Huddleston, instructor in the Music Department.

Miss Butler, a senior voice major, is a student of Miss Phyllis Jenness. She was last seen as Maurya in the opera "Riders to the Sea," by Ralph Vaughan Williams, which was presented as a part of the recent Opera Workshop.

She will present works by Bach, Schubert, Brahms, Samuel Barber, Patrick Joyce, and a group of Irish Folk Songs.

This recital is in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Music in Applied Voice.

The recital is free and the public is invited.

SUB Grill Will Open April 15

The new Student Union cafeteria and grill will be open when students return from spring vacation, according to present schedule, said George Kavanaugh, associate business manager.

Kavanaugh said present plans call for closing the old cafeteria and grill April 5, when students leave for vacation. He expects the move to take about 10 days.

Contractors were scheduled to meet with Kavanaugh today to discuss whether the present schedule can be maintained.

If the move cannot be made over spring vacation, he said, the contractors will have to close the cafeteria while school is in session later in the spring. An alternative would be to delay the move until June, Kavanaugh said, but added this delay would not be practical.

The new cafeteria will have three serving lines, one of which will be a grill line. Folding doors will separate the cafeteria from a large grill, but the doors can be opened to provide a common eating area.

Kavanaugh said the present tables and chairs will be used in the new cafeteria until new furniture arrives this summer. The seating capacity will then be increased to 913.

Duke, Loyola To Clash Tonight

America's top three basketball teams highlight the field for the silver anniversary National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament starting tonight in Louisville.

Cincinnati, Duke, and Loyola of Chicago are ranked 1, 2, 3 in both major cage polls. The fourth team, Oregon State, is rated 11th in the United Press International poll.

Duke and Loyola of Chicago range in tonight's first game at 7:30. Defending national champion Cincinnati meets Oregon State in the finale at 9:30.

Tonight's first game could be one of the years best matches. Duke is riding the crest of a 20-game winning streak. Loyola, meanwhile, is the nation's scorching team, averaging over 90 points per game.

Jell Mullins and Art Heyman, Duke's great offensive punch, will try to outdistance Loyola's balance. Loyola has all five starters averaging over 14 points per game.

Heyman is averaging 24.9 while Mullins is scoring at a 20.4 clip.

Mullins and Heyman are backed up by 6-10 Jay Buckley. Averaging 11.1 points and 10 rebounds per game, Buckley was hurt in last weekend's regional play but he is expected to be ready for action tonight.

All-America Jerry Harkness is the only senior on George Ireland's Loyola Ramblers. Harkness is averaging 21.7 for the year.

Leslie Hunter, 6-7, is the starting center for the Ramblers.

He's currently averaging 17 points and over 11 rebounds. Joining Harkness in forward is tall Vic Rouse, with a 13 point and 11 rebound average.

Guards John Ligon, 11.2, and Ron Miller, 14.1, round out the starting five. This pair of guards spearhead the racing Kentucky attack and pressing defense.

Cincinnati's defensive specialists are trying for an unprecedented third straight championship. For the last two years the Beavers have topped Ohio State in the finals.

Cincy is led by All-Americans Tom Thacker and Ron Bonham. Bonham's averaging better than 20 points per game while Thacker is just over 15.

Running out the Cincy starting five are center George Wilson, 17.5, guard Tony Yates, 7.6, and Larry Stadelman, 7.1. Thacker has won the championship in both seasons in the helms of Cincinnati.

Making their second trip into Kentucky this season are the Beavers of Oregon State. Last December the Beavers fell to West Virginia in the first round of the NCAA. They topped Iowa for third place.

The Beavers are the decided underdogs of the tomney. Big 7-0 Mel Combs and football All-America Terry Baker lead the way for the men of Slats Gill.

Oregon State stopped fourth ranked Arizona State to win the Pac West championship and reach the finals in Louisville.

All-America Team Has 'Home Air'

Nash, Mullins, Thacker Named To 10-Man Team

By RICH STEVENSON
Kernel Daily Sports Editor

Cotton Nash, Lexington's Jeff Mullins, and Covington's Tom Thacker landed places on the 10-man All-America team selected by the Kernel sports staff.

Indiana's Jimmy Rayl, Art Heyman, Mullin's teammate on Duke, Ron Bonham, Thacker's teammate at Cincinnati, Ohio's Dave Downey, Loyola's Jerry Harkness, West Virginia's Rod Thorn, and Princeton's Bill Bradley round out the select team.

The Kernel dream-team includes three juniors and a sophomore. Nash, Mullins, and Bonham are juniors, while Bradley is only a sophomore.

Indiana, and Jimmy Rayl, have played in the shadow of Ohio State for the past three years. Last year Rayl came into own to lead the Big 10 in scoring with a 29.8 average. This season the slender 6-2, 115 Indiana athlete took a back seat to only Ohio State's Gary Bradds. Rayl averaged over 20 points per game for the season that saw a Rayl-led Indiana knock State out of an NCAA trip on the last day of season.

Rayl has twice scored 50 points in Big 10 competition, a conference high-mark.

The Kokomo kid is in fourth place all time scoring in Indiana. He ranks behind only Walt Bellamy, Don Schlundt, and Archie Dees. This season Rayl directed the Branch McCracken charges from his grid spot to a third place finish in the Big 10, behind Ohio State and Illinois.

Nash was named to the squad, despite what some observers call a "hot" season. The blond bomber averaged 20.6 for the season.

Thacker, a senior, did not know he was named to the team until he saw his name in the Kernel. He averaged 20.4 points per game for the season. He was named to the team by the staff.

The nation's top sophomore, and possibly the East's top player this season, was Bill Bradley of Princeton. He followed up his 30.6 freshman campaign with a 26-point average for his first varsity campaign.

The Bradley led Princeton team made the NCAA this year, losing to St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, despite a fine performance by Bradley.

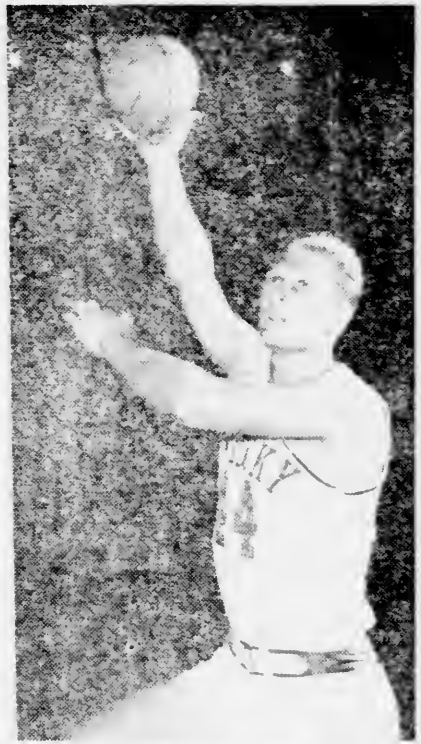

West Virginia's Rod Thorn displayed his wares for Lexington when he was here for the UKIT. Thorn tied Nash for high scoring honors in the championship game with 30 points.

Thorn, although a terrific scorer, is a fine passer, and great defensive player.

All-America Tom Thacker from Covington has led Cincinnati to two straight NCAA championships. The 6-2 forward-guard has posted a 15 point scoring average this season with two tournament games remaining.

BONHAM, Cincinnati

NASH, Kentucky

Last season Thacker hit his peak at tournament time. He gave Ohio the victory over UCLA on a prep shot with three seconds remaining, then scored 21 points in the final victory over Ohio State.

Junior senior guard and junior guard Ron Bonham, junior Thacker on the Kernel team, averaged 20.4 points per game, a 21.4 average. Bonham scored most of these on long range.

Downey is the only sophomore on the team. He was named to the team by the staff.

Attorney General To Investigate

FRANKFORT 17 — Attorney General John Breckinridge said today he is ordering an exhaustive investigation of every aspect of charges against Dr. Frank D. Peterson, suspended University of Kentucky vice president.

Breckinridge said if Peterson is innocent he is entitled to have his name cleared and if he is guilty he should be prosecuted.

The Attorney General called upon all persons with any knowledge or information about the case to come forward. He said it would help everyone concerned to clear up the matter.

Kentucky AAUP To Hold Annual Banquet March 29

The University chapter of the American Association of University Professors will hold its annual dinner at 6:15 p.m. March 29 in the Football Room of the S.B.

Dr. William P. Fidler, General Secretary of the AAUP, will be the speaker. Dr. Fidler will speak on "Challenges Confronting the Association." His emphasis will be on problems encountered with faculty administration, relationships, recent threats to academic freedom, and the association's concern in federal legislation affecting higher education.

Dr. Fidler has received degrees from the University of Alabama, Harvard, and the University of Chicago. He was a professor of English at the University of Alabama from 1949 to 1956. Presently, he is a consultant of the Copyright Office of the Library of Congress, and consultant to the U.S. Employment Office of the Department of Labor on the problem of professional personnel.

Ticket for the dinner are two dollars and may be obtained from the following professors: Dr. Noel A. Aiken, McVie Hall; Dr. Louis Doversky, Medical Center; Dr. Morris Clerley, College of Education; Dr. Wendell De Marcus, physics; Dr. Stephen Diachun, Fine Arts Building, and Dr. John Elmt, Social Science Building.

Dr. Harold Guthrie, White Hall; Dr. Eduardo Hernandez, Miller Hall; Dr. Ernst Jokl, Coliseum; Dr. Albert Lott, Medical Center; Paul Oberst, Law Building, and Dr. J. W. Patterson, Fine Arts Building.
